GOOD FOR KANSAS.

The other day the biennial message of Governor Martin was read before the legislature of Kansas, and in it are these facts in regard to temperance in that state. "Fully nine-tenths of the drinking and drunkenness prevalent in Kansas eight years ago have been abolished and I affirm with earnestness and emphasis that this state to-day is the most temperate, orderly, sober community of people in this civilized world. The abolition of the saloons has not only promoted the personal happiness and general prosperity of our citizens, but it has enormously diminished crime, has filled thousands of homes where want and wretchedness once prevailed, with peace, plenty, and contentment, and has materially increased the trade and business of those engaged in the sale of useful and wholesome articles of merchandise. Notwithstanding the fact that the population of the state is steadily increasing, the number of criminals confined in our penitentiary is steadily decreasing. Many of our jails are empty, and all show a marked falling off in the number of prisoners confined. The docket of our courts are no longer burdened with long lists of criminal cases. In the capital district, containing a population of nearly 60,000, not a criminal case was on the docket when the present term began. The business of the police courts of its larger cities has dwindled to one-fourth of its former proportion, while in cities of the second and third class the occupation of police authorities is practically gone. These suggestive and convincing facts appeal alike to the reason and the conscience of the people. They have reconciled those who doubted the success and silenced those who opposed the policy of prohibiting the liquor traffic."

These words should give encouragement to the members of our legislature to press onward and do something for temperance reform in Wisconsin. It may not be possible for absolute prohibition to exist in this state, for the reason that the foreign vote would kill such a measure were it submitted, but a more stringent law, with greatly restrictive features, something like that now working so grandly in Philadelphia, would be a blessing to the people of this state.

THE REDEMPTION OF DELAWARE.

The election of Mr. Anthony Higgins to the United States senate from Delaware is a wonderful reform for that state. The state was one of the old slave states and therefore was democratic. All the slave states are democratic to this day. It is somewhat remarkable that the chain that has bound the state of Delaware to the democracy should be snapping asunder at this time. The Baywads have had a good deal to say about Delaware politics. They have, one time and another, served 47 years in the United States senate from that state. James A. Bayard began as far back as 1804 to represent the state in the senate. He served till 1813, and his brother Richard served from 1836 to '45. The son of the original James A., bearing the same name, and father of Thomas F., the present secretary of state, was elected to the senate in 1856 and served till 1864. He was appointed in 1867 to fill a vacancy, and served two years. Thomas F., was elected in 1869 and remained in the senate till 1885, when he was called to the cabinet. It is rather singular that on the same day of Thomas's election in 1869, his father was likewise elected to the senate—the only instance on record where father and son served in the senate at the same time.

The election of Mr. Higgins is a severe rebuke to Thomas F. Bayard. His power is broken. It was supposed that being in the cabinet he would exert the old time influence of the Baywads in that state. But like Vilas and Dickinson and all other members of the cabinet he failed. The state kicked against the administration and kicked hard, and Delaware has a republican senator—the first in its history. Mr. Higgins is a fit man for the place. He is a good lawyer and an upright man. He has lived in the state for many years, and his devotion to republican principles has never been staggered.

A LITTLE TOO THIN.

The twenty democrats have gone over to Republican side and will preach that taxation on clothing and woolen fabrics, ranging from 70 to 100, is a good thing for consumers and makes them rich!

The tax on plows, harrows and farm tools, from 45 to 100 per cent, and from $40 to $80 on wire fencing and similar things, is actually making farmers lousy with profits!—Milwaukee Journal.

The Journal, which we esteem very much on account of its youthful vigor and splendid enterprise, is getting somewhat beside itself on the tariff question. We hope the Journal has not forgotten that the American working-man, the American farmer, the American mechanic, not only have a greater income than persons of like occupations in other countries, but they dress better and can buy their clothing as cheap as the people of other countries. Everybody who has traveled in foreign countries will testify to the fact that the best dressed mechanics, the most prosperous farmers, can be found in the United States.

Again, does the Journal know, and it does not, it ought to, that the so-called tax of 45 to 100 per cent on plows, harrows, and farm tools, is simply insupportable? The price lists of Europe show that all kinds of farm implements are cheaper and better here than there. Reapers and mowers are nearly 100 per cent cheaper in the United States; and besides that, plows and harrows are made so thoroughly well and cheap in this country that there are none imported. So the Journal's argument against the taxation on farm tools falls flat.

Then take wire fencing. If the Journal's theory of taxation is correct, there would be no charge on wire fencing if the duty on wire was removed, the farmers being able to obtain it for nothing. The duty on iron or steel wire is from 2 to 3 cents a pound. You can buy wire fencing at wholesale prices for very little, if not quite, that figure. The retail is only 3 1/2 for pointed, and 4 1/2 for galvanized. Now, then, does the Journal make out that if the duty was removed there would be a reduction of from $40 to $80 per acre on wire fencing? This is quite an important question.

Mr. W. F. Perry, of Fortzage, who has been appointed a member of the state board of supervision to succeed General Binfield, whose term has expired, is an old and well known citizen of the state. He has served several terms in the legislature, and is a man of business experience and ability. The Journal, of this city, charges that he is appointed by the governor to discharge a political debt, while the fact is that Mr. Perry was a zealous and active supporter of the nomination of Mr. McFetridge prior to the last republican state convention.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The opponents of Governor Hoard seem to have a hard time of it. They can't get any of their charges to stick worth a cent. But the appointment of Mr. Perry is a good one in several ways. He is a successful business man, a man of broad common sense, of great integrity, and besides his many accomplishments, is a thorough christian gentleman. He has lived at Portage forty years, was a member of the assembly in 1881 and '82, and was in the senate in 1884 and '85.

In his Commonwealth club speech the other day, giving some of the reasons why Cleveland was defeated, Carl Schurz said: "It is surprising that, laboring under such disadvantages, Mr. Cleveland was defeated? No, it was rather surprising that he was not buried under a majority mountain high. It is truly amazing that he came so near winning the victory—so near, indeed, that a change of only 8,000 votes in the state of New York would have given him the election. I have endeavored to study the causes of that result to the best of my opportunities, and I am much inclined to think that the tariff reform issue was not Mr. Cleveland's weak point, but really his strength." From this reasoning, if the tariff was rather a help than a detriment to Mr. Cleveland, his personal weakness must have been amazingly great. This is a glaring reflection on Cleveland.

The following nominations were sent to the senate on Wednesday: Chas. L. Ling, of Manitowish, state board of supervision; fish wardens, E. E. Oliver, Sheboygan; C. B. Thayer, of Door county; Jas. Chapman, Bayfield county; Solon Marke, member of state board of health for seven years; regents of normal schools, S. M. Ray, of Winnebago county; John Phillips, of Portage county; Emil Walbur, of Milwaukee county; supervisor and inspector of illuminating oils, T. J. Reeve, of Outagamie county; member of state board of charities and reforms, A. E. Elmore; state veterinarian, V. T. Atkinson, of Milwaukee; state board of supervision, W. T. Parry, of Columbia county.

An item of refreshment, from the Washington Post:—Among those somewhat advanced in years who have recently become husbands and fathers are ex-Governor John Long, member of congress from Massachusetts; General Joseph B. Hawley, senator from Connecticut; and General Anson G. McCook, secretary of the senate. General McCook is the infant member of the proud and happy trio, though he is no chicken. Governor Long makes a loving papa at the age of fifty-one, and General Hawley greets his first baby, aged sixty-three (the General, not the baby.) It is said that the General has observed that his baby is probably a democrat, as it hasn't said a word since election.

TURNED HIS HAIR WHITE.

A Young Man's Terrible Tobogganing Experience in the Catskills. A young man named John M. Damon, who has recently been boarding at Samsonville, High Point, in the Catskill mountains, has had a tobogganing experience which he probably never forgets, and which has caused his hair to grow white, says a Big Indian dispatch to the Albany Argus. On the northern point of Samsonville, High Point, is a rocky slide of slate about 1,500 feet in length as smooth as polished marble and inclined at an angle of 55 degrees. At the base is a yawning chasm 50 feet in depth. While amusing himself there the other day by casting large bowlers down the slide, as is so often done to the opposite side of the chasm and fall with a crash into the yawning abyss, the young man lost his balance and away he went down the steep. What passed through his mind in his rapid flight he will be able to state clearly, but his clothes were unmistakably drenched with what friction will do. Luckily, he was bound to the other side of the chasm, after his natural toboggan slide of 1,500 feet and was about to tumble backward into the yawning abyss below he caught a firm hold on a young cedar. While suspended in mid-air and mounting and praying for deliverance a party of young ladies, to one of whom he had pledged his youthful affections, appeared on the cliff. They heard the voice of the young man and saw his queer predicament. Shouting to him to retain his grip on the tree the young ladies ran for help, and soon the young man was rescued with the aid of ropes.

Terrible Forewarnings. Ough in the morning, hurried or difficult breathing, raising phlegm, tightness in the chest, quickened pulse, chilliness in the evening or sweats at night, all or any of these things are the first stages of consumption. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for consumption will cure these fearful symptoms and is sold under a positive guarantee by Fretzke & Eversen, druggists.

A LETTER FROM STANLEY.

JOYFUL TIDINGS FROM THE AFRICAN EXPLORER.

The Epistle Written to Tipu Tib—Editor O'Brien Discharged—A Convict's Startling Testimony.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—The following letter written by Henry M. Stanley has been received in this city:—
"ROMA OF BONALVA, MURETIA, Aug. 17.—To Sheikh Hamed-Ben-Mahomed: From his good friend, Henry M. Stanley. Many salutations to you. I hope that you are in as good health as I am, and that you have remained in good health since I left the Congo. I have much to say to you, but I shall see you face to face before many days. I reached here this morning with 190 Banawana, three soldiers, and sixty-six natives belonging to Emin Pasha. It is now seventy-two days since I left Emin Pasha on the Nyanza. I only lost three men all the way. Two were drowned and the other decamped. I found the white men who were looking for Emin Pasha quite well.

"The other white man, Casati, is also well. Emin Pasha has ivory in abundance, thousands of cattle and sheep, and goats and fowls, and food of all kinds. I found him a very good and kind man. He gave all our white men and black men numbers of things. His liberality could not be excelled. His soldiers blessed our black men for their kindness in coming so far to show them the way. Many of them were ready to follow me out of the country, but I asked them to stay quite a few months that I might return and fetch the other men and goods left at Yambungana. They prayed to God that He would give me strength to finish my way. May their prayers be heard. And now, my friend, what are you going to do? We have gone the road twice over. We know where it is bad and where it is good, where there is plenty of food and where there is none, where all the camps are, and where we shall sleep and rest. I am waiting to hear your words. If you go with me it will be here for ten days and I will then proceed slowly. I will move hence to Big Island, two hours' march from here above this place. There are plenty of houses and plenty of food for the men. Whatever you have to say to me my ears will be open, with a warm heart, as it has always been toward you. Therefore if you come, come quickly, for on the eleventh morning from this I shall move on. All my white men are well, but I left them all behind except my servant William, who is with me.

"HENRY M. STANLEY." Sheikh Hamed-Ben-Mahomed, to whom the above letter is addressed, is the Arab Tipu Tib. The letter, which was taken to Stanley Falls by a messenger, and which reached Brussels by post last night, is the only one from Stanley which has reached the coast of Africa. A number of other letters which the messenger conveyed to Stanley Falls still remain there, but it is expected that they will arrive in Europe in two or three months.

O'BRIEN GOES FREE.

The Parnell Commission Judges Accept His Statement. LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Parnell commission resumed its session this morning. Presiding Justice Hannen said that Mr. William O'Brien's article in the United Ireland, on account of which the latter was summoned to appear before the court, exceeded fair discussion of the case under investigation. The justice admitted, however, that there was some force in Mr. O'Brien's arguments regarding the continued circulation of the Times' pamphlets, and said that he believed no disrespect was intended toward the court. Therefore he would not punish Mr. O'Brien. He added, however, that in future cases of a similar nature would be more severely treated.

A Convict's Startling Testimony. Patrick Delaney, a convict in the Maryborough prison, testified that he belonged to the Fenians until September, 1882. The principal leaders of the organization were Messrs. Egan and Brennan, Dr. McAllister, John Dwyer, John Dwyer, and John Dwyer. In 1879 a number of delegates, including John O'Connor, John Devoy, and General Miller, came from America. The witness attended a meeting in Forester's Hall in Dublin at which John Devoy represented the American Council. Gen. Milton inspected the military organization. It was arranged that arms be provided and the expenses paid. At another meeting held in the rotunda Messrs. Davitt, Farnell, Egan, Bigger, Dillon, Brennan and Harris attended.

Curley at this meeting attacked Mr. Davitt for his adhering to the principles of the organization. After the meeting it was told that the circles were not opposed to the league, which would organize the Fenians in the country and supply them with arms. The witness said he had forgotten a portion of the inviolable oath, but the principal part was to assassinate the Viceroy and all the executive officials of the land. The inviolables received money from the league. Messrs. Egan, Byrne and Tynan paid some to Daniel Delaney, Mullott, and Brady. The witness was deputed to watch the movements of Mr. Forster, at that time chief secretary for Ireland. Joseph Brady and Timothy Kelly were delegated to shoot Mr. Forster, while the witness interested persons crossing the Queen street bridge while Mr. Kelly endeavored to carry out their purpose. The witness took no part in the Phoenix park murders. Mrs. Byrne brought over the two knives that were used in committing these murders. At a meeting of a committee of the inviolables, held after the Phoenix park murder, a quantity of gold and bank notes was laid upon a table; afterward more revolvers, knives, and money came.

The Indictment Against Prof. Geffcken. BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—The indictment against Prof. Geffcken, which the Reichsanzeiger published to-day by order of the Emperor, says that Prof. Geffcken had no authority to publish any part of Emperor Frederick's diary, and that Emperor Frederick's proclamation, issued on March 12, 1885, was prepared by Prof. Geffcken in June, 1885, when the late Emperor William was seized with fainting fits during a stay at Ems. A number of letters written by Baron Von Roggenbach and Prof. Geffcken are appended. Prof. Geffcken's letters are marked throughout by hostile criticism of Bismarck and his policy. Morier is frequently mentioned, the references to him showing that he was in the confidence of the writers. Notice was given in the Bundesrat to-day that a motion would be made at to-morrow's session that the Geffcken affair be made the order of the day. Prince Bismarck has submitted to the Bundesrat all the documents used during the judicial inquiry.

No Need for the Troops. LONDON, Jan. 17.—News has been received that Khartoum is threatened by an attack from the south and that Khalifa Abdullah has recalled the dervishes from Suakin and Wady-Halfa.

It is surmised that the government here has been for some time acquainted with this state of affairs at Khartoum and hence felt that it was safe to withdraw the British troops at Suakin.

Mr. Carew Under Arrest. DUBLIN, Jan. 16.—Lawrence Carew, member of parliament for North Kildare, has been served with a summons to answer for offenses charged under the coercion act. Mr. Carew is a lawyer and member of the London bar.

Taylor Tackles Railroads. Senator Hod Taylor's Much Talked of Railroad Bill Presented To-day.

State Traffic to Be Put Under the Control of a Commission of Three.

The Inter State Law Used As a Model—General Capitol News.

THE DAY AT MADISON.

Special to the Gazette. MADISON, Jan. 17.—In the senate this morning bills were introduced as follows:

Prohibiting the employment by railroad corporations of locomotive engineers who use intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

Providing for the erection of guards at the front and rear of railroad frogs.

Providing for the regulation of railroad traffic.

To appropriate $50,000 to the Waupepa Veterans Home.

In the house a bill was introduced providing for the repeal of the law giving women the right to vote at elections pertaining to educational matters.

Senator H. A. Taylor introduced his much-talked of railroad bill. The bill is very long. It applies the principles of the inter-state commerce law to state traffic, cuts off all rebates, discriminations, drawbacks, etc.; abolishes the office of railroad commissioners and provides for a commission of three who are authorized to name rates when complaints are made; and when rates are unlawful of unequal are authorized to call upon the railroad companies to reduce them. In case of failure on the part of the companies to comply, the commissioners can apply to the courts for relief. The bill abolishes the issuance of passes except to railway employees. The commissioners are to be paid $3,000 per annum and are to be appointed for a term of six years by the governor and confirmed by the senate. Only two men of one political party can be appointed.

The Homeliest Man in Janesville as well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on any druggist and get a free trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to relieve and cure all chronic and acute coughs, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.

KNOWN TO FAME.

Chiara Cignara has greatly improved in health since she has been in prison. She seems to be troubled by the fact that she must spend the remainder of her life in prison walls.

Guy de Maupassant, the noted French author, is a young man. He was born on Aug. 5, 1859, in the Chateau de Miromesnil, near Dieppe, and is therefore 28 years old. In personal appearance he is of medium height, solid and well built, with the bearing of a soldier. He is a hard worker, and the seven years during which he studied under Flaubert made him a perfect stylist.

One of the ludicrous figures of Washington society is Mr. Lix, who is now in charge of the Korean legation. Mr. Lix has endeavored to combine the full stiffness of the European style of dress with the soft lines and warm colors which characterize the oriental costume. His waistcoats are brilliant with many colors, while his trousers are nearly as wide as the skirts worn by the more conservative members of the Korean embassy.

It is said that there is a breach in the abiding friendship which has been supposed to exist between Mr. Andrew Lang and Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson. Mr. Stevenson is the author of the mischief. Ever since the publication of his review addressed to Mr. Lang, and beginning "Dear Andrew with the bristled hair," Andrew has shown a disposition to be sensitive on the subject of his red hair, and if, rumor be true, he and his friendly critic are not on very good terms.

AQUATIC MARVELS.

A new volcano is reported from Tobasco, Mexico. It spouts forth large streams of red water.

A spring of natural cologne has broken forth in the southern part of Algiers. The liquid has not been analyzed, but its odor is very similar to that of patchouli.

Near El Paso, Texas, there is a cave of unexplored dimensions which contains a beautiful lake. The shores of this body of water are strewn with human bones and pieces of pottery.
